

The UK's National Supercomputing Service

Music, order and chaos in a combustion chamber

This image shows the flow inside a gas turbine combustion chamber computed using ARCHER. Understanding flow interactions helps to construct “silent” combustors for future environmentally friendly gas turbine engines.

Mr Ivan Langella (University of Cambridge, Department of Engineering)

Image Competition: Overall Winner 2015

www.archer2.ac.uk

