

The UK's National Supercomputing Service

Turbulence-Generated Noise from a Serrated Nozzle Jet

This image shows the broadband noise generated by a turbulent jet from a serrated nozzle. The nozzle serration is used to break up turbulent structures into small scales for noise reduction.

Zhong-Nan Wang (Department of Engineering, University of Cambridge)

Image Competition: Early Career Researcher Entry and Overall Winner 2018

www.archer2.ac.uk

------

ARCHER2 is the UK's National Supercomputing Service, a world class advanced computing resource for UK researchers. ARCHER2 is provided by UKRI, EPCC, HPE and the University of Edinburgh.